PATRON'S DAY AND EXHIBIT AT GLENDALE GRAMMER SCHOOL.

Not often is a young city of the sixth class able to display such a satisfying, comprehensive idea of past porgress and future achievement as was witnessed on Friday, Feb. 21st, by the friends and patrons of our Grammer School.

The deep interest and hearty approval of the visitors gave great satisfaction to teachers and pupils alike, who so long had labored faithfully for the success of the day.

In the Glendale Grammer School there are now eight well-filled rooms; and in each of these the individuality of teacher and pupils was apparent to those who were interested enough to study progress and development from grade to grade. The remarkable demonstration of the untrained mind just coming under the control of school discipline and development is clearly defined in the primary department, where pervades an atmosphere of home-like brightness.

As usual on such occasions the First Grade room was more than comfortably filled with anxious parents eager to witness the result of the first school year on their offspring. Aside from the first attraction of rows of happy faces were samples of written work accomplished with untrained fingers, and such pleasant things as festoons of yellow daisies that fluttered attractively from the pepper boughs and spoke of hours of patient work. Also there was the effective dash across the room of very real poinsettias, cotton-tail rabbits, all the work of tiny hands.

Second and Third grades displayed such attractive things as "sewing-work" and "color-work" in the form of very neat boxes, match-holders, blotting-pads, pen-wipers, toy furniture, books, clocks, chains, air-castles, and an astonishing amount of pictures, notably "The Three Bears," "There's no dew left on the daisies and clover" and others, showing strongly the individual ideas of the children in a pleasing and often amusing manner.

In the intermediate grades, attractive work such as pictures, and seasonable work, i.e. that portraying the various holidays, such as Hallowe'en, Christmas, New Year's, Valentine Day, Lincoln's and Washington's Birthdays, show in addition development from grade to grade to a marked degree in certain lines of work; especially so in map-drawing, some of them, in the higher grades, resembling fine etchings. One style of map must have furnished, with an amount of research and originality, a vast amount of amusement as well as instruction. These maps depict the United States, and properly placed thereon are paper-fish, bits of wool, grain, cotton, wood, coal, gold and silver, hides, copper, rice, etc. Thert is a flock of robins in one of these rooms, painted from a model, that certainly made a study in ornithology rarely met, some of them really looked like robins, one of them looked like a whale! Howerer, this was "first work" in that line, and later these same scholars did some remarkably effective work in delft that was dainty and charming.

In the room for the Seventh Grade the visitor realized for the first time the preparation of pupils for High school. Only the most casual observer here failed to note the visible results of earnest labor and high ambitions. The maps were a joy, the written work an unmistaken pleasure. Daintiness of outline and a light ouch were shown in the delightful silhouettes in India ink. The entire display in the room strongly depicted development.

The eighth grade presented work of which the whole school was proud. Had it been an art exhibit this room could not have been more attractive. The charcoal drawings were perhaps the most striking, attracting first attention, among them two of the burros were worth a prize. Daintiness was the key-note in a group of delightful water-colors, the best of which, two very handsome flower-pieces, were done by boys. The landscape work that began back in the lower grades, here reached a pleasing climax and some of the pictures, California scenes in local colorings, are little gems. Truly excellent were the handsome drawings from still life and these did not fail to win astonished admiration from parents, some of whom did not even know their children were rapidly being initiated into the realms of art.

In every room, artistically displayed was our beloved flag, good pictures of Washington and Lincoln, and a great variety of spring blossoms. In the halls were large palms placed to advantage; and here on account of the sudden rain, the programme for the afternoon took place. All the numbers were good, some better, and it would not be fair to try to pick out the best, for all the participants had worked with real zest for the entertainment of their guests. Encores were plentiful.

1. Address of Welcome—Earle Sanborn.
2. Songs (a) My Native Land, (b) George, Grades 1, 2, 3, 4, 5.
3. Piano solo—Grace Innes.
4. Recitation—"Our Flag," Hugh Bryant, Harold Baker, Hildred Sternberg, Earnest Thede, Robert Blackburn and Lucile Woods.
5. Trombone solo—Percy McIntyre.
6. Song—"Let the Hills Resound," selected voices.
7. Recitation—Washington's Glory Elmer Nelson.
8. Violin solo—Julius Kranz.
9. Song—My Own United States Grades 5, 6, 7 and 8.
10. Piano duet—Edna and Mae Lawson.

Orchestra selection (Albright)—Violinists Julius Kranz and Elliot; trombone, Percy McIntyre; piano, Katherine Lennox.

The Grammer School enjoyed a visit from Mr. A. C. Wheat, assistant county Superintendent of Schools, on Monday.

Mr. Wheat spent the day visiting the different grades and inspecting the exhibit, expressing himself as being thoroughly pleased with quality and amount of work accomplished, declaring the school equal to any in the county, and the superior of many.

Four new pictures have been placed on the walls of the halls and two of the school rooms. Boughton's "Pilgrims Going to Church"; Landseer's "The Challenge"; Tryon's "Oxen Ploughing"; and a handsome photograph of "Concord Bridge and the Monument of the Minute Man."

Only five more weeks until the spring vacation.

Flower beds have been made in the court and some plants have been placed in them.

JAMES C. JENNINGS.

City Trustee James C. Jennings, who has been suffering for two or three months from an incurable malady, died at his residence on Fourth street, corner of Adams, last Saturday night about eleven o'clock. He had been a great sufferer for two or three weeks past and was reconciled to the supreme change. Interment took place on Monday afternoon at Forest Lawn Cemetery, Tropico.

Mr. Jennings was born in South Carolina fifty-six years ago. His father was a lieutenant in the Confederate service during the civil war. When scarcely past his majority the young man entered the service of the United States as a soldier and served a term of thirty years in the regular army of our country. During the first year of his service he attained the rank of first sergeant of his company. He had a varied experience at different army posts, having been stationed at Ft. Meyer near Washington, New York Harbor, Florida, Michigan, Georgia, Indian Territory and Ft. Washakie, Wyoming, at which place he quit the service and came to California, about six years ago. For twelve years he was connected with the commissary department. Nine years ago at Cumberland, Maryland, he married Miss Marie Dohr, one child having been born to them, a boy, now about seven years of age.

Coming to California, Mr. and Mrs. Jennings stopped in Los Angeles about a month and then selected Glendale as their home. Mr. Jennings was elected a member of the first Board of Trustees of the youthful city of Glendale and in that position gave to our town faithful and conscientious service. He was a man of quiet habits and was highly respected by all who knew him for his sterling reliable character. He was a member of the Methodist-Episcopal church, consistent in his life and in the passing from it, with the truly Christian character.

Miss Edith Booth of Los Angeles has just completed a visit with her sister, Mrs. Clarence Newcomb, Glendale avenue.

AT THE GLENDALE LIBRARY.

Some changes have been made at the public library by placing the reading table in the quiet rear end of the room and the book shelves nearer the front. A good, roomy mission finish counter desk, having necessary shelves and drawer, has just been built in the front, where the librarian can better attend to the requirements of the reading public. The young librarian, Mrs. Danford, possesses superior natural endowments for this position, and having had experience as a teacher, is especially qualified and possessing a pleasing personality is much liked by all classes of borrowers. She is now engaged in systematically recording and classifying the books according to Melville Dewey's decimal system, which is the accepted method used from the Library of Congress at Washington down to Glendale!

The new Church Periodical Club traveling library of nearly fifty volumes is replete with the best in literature as are all of the libraries sent out by the Episcopal diocese of Los Angeles. The following are a few of the good things: Two timely books on the Russo-Japanese war. "Roosevelt, the Citizen," by that keen, attention-claiming writer, Jacob Riis. Biography of that herculean explorer of the Dark Continent, Henry M. Stanley. The story of "Puntita Ramabai," that beautiful East Indian character, whom some may recall as having seen in this country during her pilgrimage of love for the emancipation of her sister child widows in India. "Parsifal, a Mystical Drama by Richard Wagner, Retold in the Spirit of the Bayreuth Interpretation," by Oliver Huckel. All lovers of Wagner's Parsifal, one of the few greatest masterpieces of the world, will be deeply interested in this intrinsically religious and poetical production in an artistic binding and beautifully illustrated.

The following contributions have been received at the library:

Mrs. Barager—Little Shep of Kingdom Come, Bob, Son of Battle, Girl at Cobhurst, Puritan's Wife, 2 Red Books, 4 miscellaneous, 2 All Story, 2 Smith's, 1 Globe, 1 Cosmopolitan, 1 Out West, 1 Pearson's, 1 World Today, T Ainslee, I Argosy.

GLENDALE, CAL., FEBRUARY 29, 1908

Mrs. Aurelia J. Corker was arrested the other evening in Los Angeles for making a speech upon the street, contrary to ordinance. Aurelia should hire a hall or some one is liable to call her by her last name.

The U. S. Supreme Court decides that the Elkins law, under which Judge Landis gave his decision imposing the $29,240,000 fine, was not repealed by the Hepburn act. Buy an extra can of oil before the raise; it begins to look as if John D. would have to pay up.

That freakish individual, William Randolph Hearst, has exposed to public admiration another hue of his variegated personality, which harmonizes not at all with the lurid yellow that has heretofore predominated.

He writes to his own paper a letter in which he declares his belief in the illegality of the "boycott" and tells the editor in charge that he is wrong in criticising the recent decision of the Supreme Court.

We are glad that this gentleman of chameleon-like epidermis has confirmed the decision of the United States Supreme Court, anyhow; it might not have stood long, otherwise.

Charles Keiner, ex-civil service examiner, has been exposing the methods of the political civil service commissioners in Los Angeles. From accounts of applicants who have gone through these examinations we have been led to infer that they are more or less fraudulent and that favoitism counts as much now as ever it did, in securing positions under the municipality. This impression is confirmed by the story of Mr. Keiner, who shows how the commissioners, after the examinations take place, mark the papers "up" or "down" at their own sweet will. Dr. John R. Haynes, professional reformer, is accused by Mr. Keiner of being one of the principal sinners on the commission.

A Nodding Homer

The Los Angeles Times has made two very bad errors recently, which its evening contemporary, the Evening News, has been quick to notice. Indeed, they are such bad ones that he who runs can read between the lines and come quickly to the conclusion that some 'prentice hand is on the helm of our big contemparary.

One was a scholarly editorial on the London Society of "Physical" Research, a society which all the rest of the world has heretofore supposed to be interested in "psychical" matters merely. The other gave credence to the "recent" remarkable discovery that the Finnish epic, the "Kalevelah," had been plagiarized by Longfellow in his "Hiawatha;" a fact which Edgar Poe dilated upon rather extensively some sixty years ago!

Concerning the Father of His Country

Ever since that time when at a rather tender age we realized that our chance was already spoiled and that it was useless for us to attempt to equal in veracity the proud record of the nation's hero, we have cherished somewhat of a harmless grudge against him, a feeling somewhat akin to a mean spirit of jealousy, which being no credit to us has not been made known to the world at large.

At this late day, however, we are encouraged by certain disclosures to make known the doubts which harrassed our boyhood's days as to the impeccability of George Washington, whom we all call great. Birthdays are not doing him any good. Every one that comes along leaves a train of stories in regard to that great personage which tends to show that he was a mere manly sort of a man, far from being perfect, having the most of the faults of his time to some extent and some of the faults that belong to all time.

The records recently brought to light in Virginia seem to show that he was a tax shirker, that he was not averse to saving a few dollars by turning in an assessment which would not bear investigation and swearing that it was true.

This story we would like to disbelieve. We can readily excuse him for having some of the ordinary everyday weaknesses, but this charge is too serious to afford us the gratification which we get out of the knowledge that he sometimes used bad language, or drank a glass of wine or something stronger (as everybody did in those days) when he wanted to do so. We no longer feel that the great man was super-human; and knowing him to have had streaks of human weakness like the rest of us, makes him seem more nearly akin and not beyond us so far but that he may continue to be an inspiration and a worthy example for the youth of the country which justly honors him as the foremost citizen in its hall of fame. We seriously hope that too-active historians will not seek further to detract from the halo with which a grateful people have crowned the great personage who is so generally and appropriately known as "The Father of His Country."

The Lincoln-Roosevelt Republican League

The principles of this organization as set forth in its platform, are worthy of the support of every Republican in the state. Stated briefly they are as follows:

1st. To rescue the party from the control of the Southern Pacific Railway Company, which is back of the existing Republican organization of the state.

2d. To select delegates to the Republican National Convention, pledged to the support of a candidate who will carry out the policies of President Roosevelt.

3d. To elect a free, honest and capable legislature.

4th. To pledge all delegates to conventions to oppose the iniquitous practice of "trading," whereby nominations are made matters of bargain and sale.

5th. Action by next legislature which shall give voters a voice in the election of U. S. Senators.

6th. The pledging of candidates to support a direct primary.

This is a platform which should command the support of every honest voter in the party. Of course it is understood that anybody can make a platform and voters are not to be expected to flock to the support of any political organization simply because the platform promises well. But in this case, there can be no question in the mind of any well informed citizen about the necessity for the existence of an organization with such avowed purpose and with such well grounded reasons for its existence.

The first plank is all sufficient in itself to justify the movement. The part which the Republican party of the state plays as a puppet in the hands of skillful manipulators entrenched behind the treasury and the resources of the railroad company, is sufficient to cause the traditional "blush of shame to mantle," etc., if many years of experience with the thing had not calloused our countenances. There was a time when the control of the party by the railroad company was denied, but that has all passed by. The fact is now universally admitted and the average member of the party appears perfectly willing to accept his proportion of the disgrace which the circumstances imply; indeed if there happens to be any perquisite or doubtful "honor" thrown in his way, he jumps at it with exceeding alacrity and this pitiable weakness of human nature, being perfectly well known to the wily manipulators who pull the strings, is played by them for all it is worth.

Under present conditions our primaries, conventions and elections are all a farce. The state and county officers, owing to the great preponderance of the Republica party are selected at the convention and the subsequent general election is a mere costly formality. The luke-warmness of the rank and file allows the organized minority to control the primaries and hence the state. Our legislative sessions are as a rule occasions for the public display of the power of the controlling force. While many laws are passed which the railroad company takes no interest in, yet none to which it objects finds a place upon the statute books. When a vacancy occurs, say upon the bench of the county court, a list of the lawyers acceptable to the railroad company, is submitted to the governor and he is allowed to select one of them for the place. These things are matters of fact, and constitute the conditions which confront us.

The league is organized for the purpose of remedying these great evils. As evidence of its sincerity there may be named as among its members such men as Judge Waldo M. York, State Senator Chas. W. Bell, Lee C. Gates, Sidney A. Butler, ex-Senator Thos. R. Bard, ex-Governor Geo. C. Pardee and a host of others who are in the work because they can no longer evade the responsibility which calls upon good citizens to be up and doing something. They are not an aggregation of office seekers. The league at present is backing but one candidate for office and that is the Hon. William Howard Taft, for the presidency of the United States. It is taking no particular interest as yet in the local campaign that is approaching; the immediate work of the present is to work up a sentiment which shall result in sending delegates to the state convention which will select delegates to the National convention of the party at Chicago next June.

ASTRONOMY.

Southern California Academy of Sciences First Notice.

The half-yearly bulletin of this society has just been issued. It contains many able papers and interesting discussions, illustrated with beautiful plates and diagrams, embracing a wide range of scientific activity, and is a most worthy contribution to the literature of local science. The special objects of the organization, as stated in the Bulletin, are the investigation of natural phenomena and the dissemination of scientific truths. We are further informed that the work of the academy is being conducted with great vigor, that interesting and instructive lectures, popularizing some branch of scientific inquiry, are given to intelligent and appreciative audiences at Symphony Hall on South Hill street, Los Angeles, on the first Monday of each month. All the other Monday evenings of the month are occupied by academic sections where subjects requiring more technical treatment are discussed by specialists.

The society is commended to the hearty support of all lovers of nature and science. From among the more interesting subjects treated of in the Bulletin I transcribe the following notes for the benefit of my fellow readers of the News.

Astronomical.

The astronomical section possesses a 4½ inch objective equatorial telescope, capable of showing the discs of the planets, separating many beautiful double stars, and resolving numerous star-clusters.

During the recent favorable opposition of Mars, Professor David Todd established himself at a high altitude in the Andes, where the planet was nearly overhead, and succeeded in taking some 7000 photographs, many of which show the "canals" with remarkable distinctness, and even the mysterious doubling of the lines, which has only hitherto been observed with the eye, leaving room for doubt as to their being due to optical illusion. The unerring record now obtained, however, entirely disposes of these doubts, and firmly establishes the objective reality of the lines on the surface of the planet. Thus does the beautiful art of photography supplement and confirm the patient keen-eyed observations of the skillful astronomer.

An ingenious device in the form of an iron tank about six feet square in which Professor Todd worked for a time, enabled him to achieve results otherwise impossible at that great elevation. Air was pumped into the compartment until the pressure within was the same as that at sea level, nearly three miles below. The "tank" was lighted by electricity and connected with the outer world by telephone.

Recent study of what may be called the "Martian problem," in connection with Prof. Todd's collection of photos, tends to confirm the theory of the existence of intelligent life on the planet: and therefore whatever the enigmatical markings may really be, it grows more certain that they are not the work of unaided nature, but are the result of well directed engineering skill.

Biological.

At the November meeting Professor J. Z. Gilbert of Los Angeles High School Department of Science, discussed the relation of carbon to the plant and animal life on the globe. At great length and with scholarly exactness he described the numerous and marvelous combinations upon which life are dependent, in all of which carbon plays an important part. He also showed the utter hollowness of the pretention recently made to the production [illegible] of artificial chemical compounds, proving all apparent vitality and growth under such conditions to be mere accretions without the presence of the all-important life-germ.

At page 20 of the Bulletin is an interesting paper by Professor Gilbert on "Ancestors of our Whales." Introducing the subject he says: "The hills of the city of Los Angeles would seem a strange place in which to find whales, and yet when the conditions are studied there is no reason why whale fossils should not be unearthed there. In fact the occasion of this preliminary sketch is a find of fragments of an ancient whale, made in the miocene rocks of Clover Canon, at the east end of East Avenue 33, Los Angeles."

Tree Growth and Sun Spots.

At the meeting of December 30th, 1907, Professor E. A. Douglas of the University of Arizona gave account of some original research work of a novel nature undertaken by him while acting as assistant astronomer at the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff. Here he became deeply interested in tree growth as attested by the annular rings disclosed in cross-sections of giant pines from 300 to 500 years old. By examining the cross-sections of many large logs the professor was enabled to compare them with each other, and note the fact that all alike showed large growth in the years following rainy seasons, and meager growth in dry seasons. He thus found a sure criterion of rainy and dry years for periods reaching back to the century before Columbus discovered America. Finally, seeking the cause of that periodicity, he noted the fact that it accorded fairly well with the maximum and minimum sun spot periods, thus bringing out the hidden relations of sun spot activities, seasons of unusual rainfall, and vigorous or feeble tree growth.

Many other interesting subjects are discussed in the Bulletin, notice of which will form the subject of another paper. X RAY.

ASTROLOGY UP TO DATE.

By Prof. Lombroso Spaghetti, A. S. S.

The young should beware and the old look out,
It's a bad time for rheumatiz, and also gout.

This is the last day of the month and by a strange combination of planets and almanacs, will be followed by the first. New undertakings on this day should succeed, unless embarrassed by unexpected failure.

It is a good time to make soup, but cooks who are in any way particular should be careful not to fall in.

Venus being in the ascendant, as usual, is liable to make trouble in families. Young women who are in love should be watched carefully by parents; they are likely to see heroes disguised in every-day clothes, and after marriage will wonder where they have gone.

Children born on this day will be subject to croup, nostolgia and the gout. Female children will grow up to be pillars of society, wear short hair and want to vote early and often.

This is a bad time for accidents; the wise man will put them off until a more convenient season or have them happen to his neighbor. Merchants should be careful in all their dealings. It is a good time for them to give promissory notes payable on April 30th. They should not put sand in sugar; it is not good form, and there are other adulterants just as cheap.

This is a good time for school children; some great man will probably visit them and assure them that the presidency is within their grasp. Bad boys are advised to make a collection of these yarns; they can be used later to mend their ways.

Sirius, the dog star, is of malevolent aspect; he should be kept at a distance. The same advice applies to the goat, which being in conjunction with the weasel, indicates that at this time men should keep their eyes open and not be induced to join secret societies. It is unlucky to fall down stairs, be run over by an automobile or be caught in a buzz saw. By avoiding unpleasant things of this nature, many of the annoyances of our daily life may be avoided.

The moon it shines in the sky at night,
And the things I promise are out of sight.

Mr. Thos. O. Pierce writes from Pittsburg, Kansas, where he is visiting his old home, that he is enjoying himself, not having experienced any very wintry weather as yet.

Mr. J. B. Huff is putting up an up-to-date five-room bungalow on his lot on the corner of Fifth and Mary streets. It has a cement foundation and will probable cost $1800 or more.

The P. E. O. regular meeting was this week deferred out of respect for Edward S. Fuller and sympathy for his sister, Miss Bertha Fuller, who is a prominent member of the local chapter.

Dinner guests of Miss Ida M. Waite and her sister, Mrs. Albert Tonk, of Evanston, Ill., on Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Hasselman and son James, and Madame Hasselman, of Indianapolis.

At the Presbyterian Church the morning sermon will be on the topic of Christian Growth. The evening sermon will be the second of a series on "Modern Characters in Ancient Costume" entitled "The Man Who Repudiates Responsibility."

On Friday guests of Mrs. Henry Johnston were old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Grant of Pasadena. More recent guests were Mrs. Wedgewood and daughters, Miss Amy and Miss Agnes Wedgewood, who came to Glendale to complete the week-end.

Mr. S. H. Bulkeley, who was in Glendale a year or two ago for a time the guest of Mr. H. L. Bulkeley, visited Glendale this week. Mr. Bulkeley is interested in mining properties near Needles and reports good developments and very encouraging prospects.

Mr. Price, owner of the property on the corner of Third street and Adams, which Mr. Pulliam and family have been occupying, is going to occupy it with his family April first. Mr. Pulliam will move temporarily into quarters over his establishment on Third street.

Rev. Geo. Eley left on Friday last for Corona, Cal., and on Sunday preached his first sermon there. While in Corona Rev. Eley dined with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dell Lamson, formerly of Glendale. A splendid attendance at both the morning and evening Sunday service foretold a welcome for the former Glendale rector of St. Mark's, should he decide to go there.

John S. McLain, for twenty years the editor of the Minneapolis Journal, was the guest of the Rev. Dr. Ward on Wednesday. Mr. McLain and Mr. Ward were room-mates in college thirty-five years ago, and Mrs. McLain and Mrs. Ward were girls in the same Indiana town. As they had not met for more than twenty years, the reunion was extremely pleasant and the flow of reminiscence continuous.

On Saturday Mrs. Eley will go to Corona to join her husband, from there they expect to visit old parishioners, Mr. and Mrs. Newport and family, for a few days, in Perris. While there the infant child of the Newports will be christened by Rev. Eley, just as every other member of the family has been. The christening will be made a very pretty and impressive affair.

On Thursday evening in the quaintly charming bungalow home of Mrs. George Eley, in Lomita Park, the members of the Lomita Dramatic Club were very pleasantly entertained. These young people dearly love the wife of their former pastor, who often has proven herself very near and dear to them. It would be a very real grief to them should Mrs. Eley decide to move from Glendale, as well as to many other residents in our city, and there is the possibility at present that she may do so.

Miss Cora Hickman, District Deputy Grand Matron of the order of the Eastern Star, invites all visiting members of the order in the valley to attend a reception to be given in the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, on Saturday evening, March 7th, in honor of Miss Emma Riehl, Worthy Grand Matron, and Benjamin B. Cartwright, Worthy Grand Patron. Tickets for this reception can be obtained from Miss Hickman until Wednesday next.

Dr. D. W. Hunt, office and residence, Third and Louise street.

JOHN HOBBS FOR SUPERVISOR.

In this issue of the News appears the announcement of Mr. John Hobbs, as candidate for the nomination for supervisor for the Fifth supervisorial district. This is the largest district in the county, comprising the First and Eighth wards of Los Angeles and all the northern portion of the county taking in also North and South Pasadena. The importance of the office makes it of the greatest importance to the people that they should be represented by a man of first rate ability and undoubted integrity. He should also have been a resident of the district long enough to be well acquainted with its requirements and have a considerable acquaintance with its people.

Mr. Hobbs has been a resident of Tropico and a property owner there for the past seventeen years and has always been active in the public affairs of his section. For eleven years he has been connected more or less every year with the assessor's office, being a field deputy for a good portion of that time, and for the last three years, until about six months ago, has been employed in the assessor's office and with the Board of Equalization. In this position he has become familiar with county affairs and acquired knowledge which would be of great benefit to him in filling the position of supervisor. Mr. Hobbs is at present proprietor of the Tropico Lumber yard. His extensive acquaintance in this neighborhood and his reputation for integrity and ability, should make him an ideal candidate. If nominated he will undoubtedly carry his district by a large majority.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The regular meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club occurred on Feb. 25th, the library room being prettily arranged with castor bean plants for the event.

Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. Robert Morris, Mrs. Robert Blackburn occupied the chair. No definite work was reported by committees, as committee work has been largely interfered with on account of illness of various members.

The program in the hands of Mrs. J. N. Witham was a most intersting one. "The Mexican War and Slavery Agitation" was ably and comprehensievly presented by Mrs. Benjamin Nichols, and, in a forceful and convincing manner Mrs. Danford talked to the club on "Fort Sumpter and Through Lincoln's Administration."

The secretary, representing the Tuesday Afternoon Club and the Civics Committee, will send a vote of thanks to Edgar W. Leavitt for the letter printed in the News on December 21, calling attention to the good effects of "Clean-up Day" and urging the citizens to "keep cleaning" with the request that he will soon write another such letter for those who failed to see the previous one.

On behalf of the club members, Mrs. Robert Blackburn wrote and presented a beautiful and loving appreciation for tht late Edward S. Fuller, who had always, with ready hand and generous heart, been a real benefactor to the club.

This appreciation will be sent to the members of the family and in loving remembrance, spread upon the minutes.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

A unique and cleverly arranged birthday party was given at the First Presbyterian church Wednesday evening by the Ladies' Aid of the church. All attending were afforded the pleasure of participating in the pleasures of celebrating his own birthday anniversary. An interesting literary and musical program was rendered. Those assisting in the program were Mrs. Charles Peckham, vocal solo; Miss FrancesErskine, vocal solo; Joy Goodsell, flute solo; Mrs. C. E. Doffelmeyer, vocal solo; Miss Evalena Ayers, soprano solo; E. J. Morgan, tenor solo.

FAREWELL PARTY.

The young friends of Mrs. Bailey (formerly Miss Aimee Barager) gave her a farewell party at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Barager, on Cedar street. Monday evening, prior to her departure for Phoenix, Arizona, to join her husband. There was a goodly company present all of whom enjoyed the pleasant occasion to the utmost. Games were played, luncheon enjoyed and the time until a late hour passed in pleasant sociability. Mrs. Bailey will be missed by a large circle of friends in Glendale.

FREE LECTURE.

This (Saturday) evening, Dr. B. E. Fullmer will lecture at the Sanitarium Gymnasium on "The Battle of Life." This is one of the series of free lectures being given there, to which everybody is invited.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Miss Traphagen, who has been absent from the school for the past fortnight on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. Davis, who died at her home in Los Angeles last week, is expected to resume her duties next week. Her place is being filled temporarily by Miss Bromwell, a former teacher here.

The Girls' Basket Ball game in the semi-finals, which was played Saturday last on the Occidental grounds at Highland Park, between the Glendale and the Alhambra teams, resulted in a victory for Alhambra by a score of 29 to 25. It was closely contested and it was only by reason of the superior height and weight of two members of the Alhambra team, that they won the game. This advantage was demonstrated when Alhambra played the Polytechnics to a tie on Wednesday. That game, by the way, was protested, thus increasing undesirably the feeling of friction between those teams, which grew out of a previous contest. In the game at Occidental the Glendale girls were highly complimented by Miss Mary Plummer, referee, on their team work. Miss Plummer particularly commended the excellent work of Miss Cottrell and Miss Sadler as forwards. While at Highland Park the Glendale track team met the track team of the Occidental Academy in an interesting meet. In the mile run and relay, Glendale made no entries and Occidental had all the points for these events. The final score was 37 to 76, which, under the circumstances was pleasing to the Glendale boys, as several of the academy players are as good as the college athletes. In the track meet at the Occidental grounds March 28th, Glendale expects to win its full share of the trophies. The teachers and students appreciate most heartily the support given the players by the home people in these contests; a large number of Glendale people were at Highland Park to see the game with the Alhambra team and their presence was inspiring. And the financial aid contributed by the friends and patrons of the school has been most liberal. This support has had an excellent effect upon the spirit of the students and enabled them to bear either victory or defeat in the proper spirit of the true sportsman.

Miss McLain, who last week had tonsilitis and was kept away from school, is able to again take up her work.

A GOOD TIME TO BUILD.

As compared with prices a year ago, lumber is almost ten dollars per thousand cheaper. Labor can also be secured at a lower figure. Now is the time for people who contemplate building in the near future, to arrange their affairs so as to take advantage of present conditions which will not long continue. There is plenty of money in Southern California to warrant a quick return to the livelier trade conditions of a few months ago, and the wise man with money in bank or who can procure money on satisfactory collateral, should not hesitate to invest it in improving his property. From all over the country come reports of trade revival.

Factories are increasing their operations in response to the growing demand for their products and the railroads are moving in the same direction. A good many concerns that have merely taken advantage of existing conditions to put into effect some plan for curtailing expenses, without really being compelled to do so, are loosening up their purse strings after the brief spasm of economy.

Locally, conditions are very encouraging. The number of visitors to Glendale and Tropico increases daily, with a proportionately increasing inquiry, particularly for houses to rent. The zanjero of the Tropico Water Co. reports ten new connections made with their mains during February, which means that many new families added to the population of our territory south of Ninth street. On Tenth street four new houses have been erected in the last sixty days. Outside the city limits, the Vineyard Tract west of Central avenue, continues to add half a dozen houses or so per month to its rapidly increasing and remarkable growth. There is but little doubt as to an advance in the price of lumber in a short time, not to its previous high figure, but to a considerable higher one than at present. A number of new buildings are being figured on and we expect to be able to announce a distinct revival of building operations in a short time.

"MR. BOB."

A good-sized audience gathered in the Masonic Hall on Saturday evening to witness the two-act comedy, "Mr. Bob," givin by members of the Lomita Dramatic Club, composed largely of young people of St. Mark's Episcopal church.

The original and very laudable ambition of these young people had been the purchase of vestments for the choir, but this has merged into a desire for a Bishop's chair for the chancel, so the pleasure was of the fairest equal on both sides, and satisfaction made happy the actors as they did their very acceptable best for the forty dollar audience.

The appearance of Miss Edna Valentine as "Patty" called forth a welcoming applause and the young lady proceeded immediately and at once to come up to the expectations of her admirers. When she whistled and stood on her toes the general verdict was that "she was just all right!" for Miss Valentine is an old-time favorite here.

The real sweetness and dainty charms of Miss Pittman and Miss Sadler helped them greatly in depicting "Mr. Bob" and "Katherine" respectively, in a manner that won praise from their friends and applause from all. Miss Greene carried on the story of the play so satisfactorily that one wondered what in the world they would have done without her.

Karl Scheu came very near being "the real thing" and kept the audience in a roar of laughter. The impeccable "Mr. Jenkins" of Dick McCann was genuinely funny, and apparently nothing but an earthquake could disturb his equanimity.

Dan Kelty as "Philip" was "dear," an indisputable fact, because a group of admirers—not of the male persuasion—declared it.

To anyone familiar with the proximity of the rear wall of the Masonic hall, the "yacht race" was not as wildly exciting as it might have been, but that was no fault of the players and doesn't need to be mentioned.

Altogether the playlet was satisfactory, financially and otherwise, for the girls were all charmingly pretty, the boys splendid, and only the cat might have been improved upon, actual talent bobbed up in places often enough to cause the audience to frequently forget that the players were "amateors." Much credit is due Mrs. Eley for her management of the affair.

A call from the Supt. Soldiers' and Sailors of the W. C. T. U. for Comfort Bags for the "sailor boys" on Admiral Evans' fleet. Anyone wishing to make and donate one to the W. C. T. U. of Glendale will please do so. Cut this in two pieces for two bags. On wrong side of cloth 4 inches from top edge, fasten three pieces of new flannel, red, white and blue, with pinked edges for safety pins and needles. Fasten a bag of buttons on the other side, where the casing will be made. Sew up side and bottom, turn down 2 inches at the top for frill; stitching 2 rows (1 inch apart) for casing for two strings of pretty colored braid each 21 inches long and run in either side for opening and closing bag. Contents: The pin ball filled with pins, 2 sizes of black and white buttons, 1 spool each white and black thread No. 24, 1 spool each white and black darning cotton, 1 pair scissors, 1 package court plaster, 1 testament, pledge card, leaflets on purity, tobacco and temperance, 6 needles No. 5, 6 coarse darning needles, 6 safety pins, 1 piece narrow tape, 1 small roll absorbant cotton, 1 small roll of clean muslin for bandages 2 inches wide, 1 yard long, a good motherly letter. Funeral of Edward S. Fuller

The funeral services over the remains of Prof. Edward S. Fuller, were held at the Unitarian Church, Los Angeles, last Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The body and friends were then taken on a Pacific Electric special car to Forest Lawn cemetery, Tropico, where interment was made. Mr. Fuller was organist of the Unitarian church at the time of his death and had many friends in musical circles. He was a member of the Gamut Club and had filled the position of organist at the Third Presbyterian Church, Los Angeles, and the First Unitarian of Pasadena. He was popular as an accompanist and has been playing at a number of recitals recently. Mr. Fuller was only 23 years of age and was apparently at the threshold of a successful musical career. A large circle of friends and acquaintances extend their sympathy to his family.

Lincoln-Roosevelt Republican Club

The club held a meeting last Saturday evening at the city hall. The attendance was small but about a dozen new names were added to the roll of membership. Mr. A. I. Stewart addressed the meeting. He proved to be an interesting talker, well versed in practical politics and gave an address of much interest as showing the working of the "machine" in the county and state. He also gave a very encouraging report of the progress of the movement throughout the state.

The club will meet again on the evening of Saturday, March 7th, when it is expected that one of the best speakers of the organization will be present to address the meeting.

Greatest Lumber Cut

Through error, the total lumber cut of 1906, "Greatest Lumber Cut," which appeared in our last issue, was given as 37,550,736 board feet. It should have been 37,550,736,000 board feet.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY.

The Rev. S. Lawrence Ward, of the Presbyterian church, had a birthday Friday of last week, but having had them before, was not inclined to pay any particular attention to it. It seemed to some of his friends, however, that something ought to be done in the matter, and they did it. About 8 o'clock in the evening they began to arrive from all points of the compass, in singles, couples and groups and soon comfortably populated the pastor's spacious mansion. It was noticeable that many of the ladies were carrying mysterious packages which were deposited in the kitchen as they entered, and it is yet a matter for speculation why they preferred to come in that way, for does not the scriptures say something uncomplimentary about those who prefer to enter in that manner? But this is an aside and liable to lead to sectarian disputations, the essential fact is that they got there. Mr. Ward bore his blushing honors with becoming dignity and was quite properly surprised, but having had birthdays before, as previously remarked, behaved with entire propriety. The older visitors amused themselves by discussion of a wide range of topics, including the weather and prohibition and had them all satisfactorily settled before adjournment. A very large group of the younger guests and the children of the family, wisely eschewed the weather and affairs of state, and kept merry carnival in a large corner of one of the large rooms, where theye was every evidence given of a "time" going on. Refreshments were served in generous profusion, all kinds and conditions of good cake with excellent coffee and punch. A large birthday cake, surrounded by the proper number of candles, one for each year, adorned the center of the table; this was cut by Mr. Ward and every guest was served with a portion which was eaten in honor of the "bride" of the fortunate gentleman whose birthday was so happily celebrated. Mr. Ward is already figuring on having another birthday next year.

NEW DRUG STORES.

It is a suspicious circumstance, following upon recent events in our town, but we have to announce the advent of two more drug stores in Glendale.

Mr. Gilkey of Los Angeles has leased the north room of the new brick building on the boulevard north of Fourth street and will open up a pharmacy there. The store on the corner of Fourth street and Glendale avenue has also been leased for a similar purpose, but we are not informed yet as to the name of the lessee.

We still have a number of copies of the Anniversary Number of the News which we would like to dispose of . . . Just the thing to send to your friends "back east."
